

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, November 12. 1707.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Novemb. 1.

Warsaw, October 17.

TH O' the Swedes forbear to advance against the Muscovites with all their Forces, and are Quarter'd in the Three Waywodships of Posen, Kalish, and Cujavia; yet by the Preparations they make 'tis evident they design to break up the first fit Opportunity, to pass the Vistula and follow the Muscovites into Lithuania. Prince Menzikow, and the other Muscovite Generals in these Quarters, are posted at Praeg Pultowsk and Blonia.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Nov. 1.

Dantzick, Octob. 20. The Desolation in the Polish Prussia is inexpressible; the Muscovites destroying the Provisions and Forage on Pretence of depriving the Swedes of all Means of Subsisting. They have likewise dislodg'd the Swedes that had been possess'd for some Time of an Island in the Vistula near Thorn: and have broken down the 2 Bridges that were at Thorn over that River. The King of Sweden who is advanc'd to Slupza, had order'd his Army to hold themselves in a readiness to march towards Thorn, there to pass the Vistula: But on Advice that the Muscovites had broken down the 2 Bridges there, has suspended his March.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Nov. 8.

Wilda, Oct. 17. The Czar of Muscovy and the hereditary Prince his Son have been here some Days: They are Treated every day by the Generals and Men of Quality that are here, and on Thursday last were Entertain'd by the Seminary of Jesuites. General Baur is said to be march'd with a Body of Men towards Braslau and Polocko, to observe the Forces commanded by Prince Wiefnowiski. General Allard is to direct the making of a new Line from Polocko to Bialoca, in which 40000 Men may be posted; whence 'tis conjectur'd the Muscovites intend to take up their Winter Quarters in white Russia as soon as they have clear'd the Country where they now are of all the Forage; which they will not be long a doing. Prince Galiczin is marching with some Troops and a great Number of Waggons towards Polocko. 3 Regiments are here with Prince Repin. Prince Wiefnowiski is with his Body on the Frontiers of Courland.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Nov. 5.

Lublin, Oct. 26. The Crown Army commanded by their Generals are march'd through this City for Lithuania. The Bishop of Cujavia and some other Persons of Quality are with them.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Nov. 12.

Posen, Oct. 23. The Kings of Sweden and Poland continue encamp'd near Slupza. Smigielski is march'd with a Body of Men towards Thorn; 1500 Swedes that lately came from Pomerania, are march'd through this City for their Army.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Nov. 8.

Hamburg, Nov. 4. Letters from Poland advise, that the Swedish Army waited at Slupza for a hard Frost, designing then to advance to the Vistula and pass it. The King of Sweden has given Order for his Parties not to trouble themselves to bring in Prisoners the Muscovites that fall into their Hands, but to put them all to the Sword. The Muscovites seem resolv'd to post themselves advantageously in Lithuania, and there venture a Battle with the Swedes. From Breslau they write, that some Persons, who pretending themselves to be Swedish Officers had levied Contributions in several little Towns in Silesia, were Seiz'd and Imprison'd.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 8.

Dresden, Oct. 18. 'Tis advis'd from upper Poland, that General Patkul, formerly Minister of State and Ambassador of the Czar of Muscovy, who was deliver'd to the Swedes by King Augustus, was broken alive on the Wheel the 10th of this Month near the Convent of Cassimir between Posen and Slupza, where the King of Sweden had at that Time his Head Quarters: That his Body was afterwards Quarter'd, and his Quarters set up on Stakes plac'd on the Road to Cassimir. M. Patkul, his Nephew, a Captain in the Regiment of Livonia, was commanded to see this terrible Execution done. His Uncle left him a Legacy of 6000 Crowns, payable in Switzerland, where he had above 200000 Crowns. Some Advices from Poland, say the Czar of Muscovy has already given Order for making Reprisals for the Death of General Patkul on the Swedish Prisoners that are in his Hands.

Dublin, November 5. ' This Day the Lord Lieutenant goes to Christ-Church in State, being the Anniversary of the Gunpowder-Treason. Yesterday about 80 Lords and Gentlemen Dined at a Place call'd the Bowling-Green-House in this City, where they drank many Revolution-Healths, to almost every one of which was join'd the Glorious Memory of King William. They resolv'd to have a like Feast on the Queen's Birth-Day, and chose their Stewards accordingly; and also that they will constantly every Year Celebrate both those Days for the future.

The 29th of October, the following Address was Presented.

To His Excellency, Thomas Earl of PEMBROKE, Lord Lieutenant-General, and General-Governor of IRELAND.

The Humble Address of the Knights, Citizens and Burgeses in Parliament Assembled.

May it Please your Excellency,

WE the Knights, Citizens and Burgeses in Parliament Assembled, do return your Excellency our most humble thanks for your most excellent Speech from the Throne to both Houses of Parliament.

Her Majesty's faithful Commons have nothing more at Heart than her Majesty's Service, and the Common Safety of the Protestant Interest of this Kingdom, which are so Interwoven, that what strikes at the one, necessarily proves prejudicial to the other.

We Crave Leave to take this Opportunity of assuring your Excellency, that we shall in all Instances endeavour to deserve the continuance of your Excellencies Favour, in representing our Zeal and Affection for the Person and Government of the best of Queens.

And we shall, (as hitherto we have with the utmost application) give dispatch to the publick Affairs still before us, that the Kingdom may receive the benefit of those many good Bills your Excellency has been pleas'd to transmit into Great Britain.

We gratefully acknowledge her Majesty's tender Regard of our Welfare, in placing your Excellency over us; whose prudent and equal Administration hath justly rais'd in us the highest esteem for your Excellency's Person and Government.

To which his Excellency was pleas'd to answer.

MY Duty to Her Majesty, and Satisfaction in your Prosperity, will always be a sufficient Inducement for me to use my best Endeavour, and am always pleas'd when it is agreeable to you: and therefore heartily thank you for this Address.

The

The 30th, the House Order'd, Nemine Contradicente, That the Thanks of the House should be return'd to his Grace, Narcissus Lord Archbishop of Ardmagh, Primate of Ireland, for his Noble, Charitable and most useful Bounty, by the erection of a publick Library.
